

Bluegate Adds Richard T. Yee as Senior Vice President to Management Team

Houston, TX – March 21, 2006 - Bluegate Corp. (OTCBB: BGAT) today announced the addition of Richard T. Yee, a respected leader in technology/telecommunications management, to its executive team. Yee will serve as Senior Vice President, Operations, for Bluegate, the nation's premier provider of outsourced healthcare IT solutions, professional technology consulting services and the Bluegate Medical Grade Network™.

"We are excited to have attracted Rick Yee to Bluegate to be responsible for all of our daily operations," said Bluegate President William Koehler. "Rick has an extensive background in managing the operations and expansion of data communications networks, IT solutions and managed services on a national scale. At Bluegate, Rick will oversee engineering, network operations, maintenance and customer support as we expand the scope of our healthcare IT products and services and extend our customer base into other U.S. cities."

"The challenge presented by Bluegate's current and future growth was what drew me to the company," Yee said. "Bluegate is a fast-growing company in the fast-growing field of electronic health networks. I look forward to helping Bluegate achieve the scale of operations it needs to be highly successful on a national level. Coming from larger organizations, I can apply the same principles and processes to grow revenue, standardize processes and equipment, reduce expenses, and increase automation of network operations to improve efficiency."

During his more than three decades in the telecommunications industry, Yee has served in key management roles for companies such as Wiltel Communications, where he was responsible for directing the long-term planning and integration of all strategic network functions for voice, data, IP, international, local, traffic and transport. During Yee's tenure, the company grew to carry more than five billion voice minutes-of-use monthly on its next-generation fiber optic network, serving as SBC Long Distance's primary provider.

Yee also held top network management positions for Marconi Communications, Reliant Energy, Sprint and Verizon. In addition, Yee has served as a vice chairman of the United Telecom Council, a Washington, D.C. based trade association focusing on the business, regulatory and technical needs of its member companies, and chaired the group's Business Development and Public Policy Divisions.
